

Who are the Students of Stonewall?

A group of high school students and college mentors who are committed to transforming Nashville into an open and affirming community for all citizens, especially for those who identify on the LGBTQ+ continuum of identities. Over the course of the school year, this team meets weekly to identify key issues impacting the LGBT+ community and develop collaborative action plans to enact positive change. Projects have included campaigns; graduate-level teaching opportunities; conference workshops; community networking; and individual outreach.

Why are young people doing this work?

Young people are aware of the injustices affecting the LGBTQ population and are capable of creating cultural shifts. Students of Stonewall provides young people with the empowerment, tools and space necessary to use their voices and personal power in order to create change.

What are the target areas for transformation?

- Safe & Accepting Schools
- Family Acceptance
- Peer & Adult Education
- Self-Acceptance & Empowerment
- Civil & Human Rights
- Supportive Faith Community
- Access to Safe Housing
- Access to Quality HealthCare

How do students become Students of Stonewall?

High school or college students who identify within the LGBTQ continuum of identities or as an ally to the LGBTQ community are eligible to apply. High school students must be at least a rising sophomore and college mentors must have completed at least two years of college. Following the completion of the application and receipt of a recommendation, at least two interviews will be scheduled to ensure that the student is a suitable fit and capable of meeting all of the requirements. The final step will be to attend a mandatory, week-long social justice boot camp from Monday July 17th through Friday, July 21st.

THERE'S MORE TO YOUTH

STUDENTS OF STONEWALL APPLICATION

2017- 2018

As a Student of Stonewall, young people are positioned to use their voice and skills to promote and create social justice in their communities. This commitment is comparable to a paid internship. Team members are required to attend all weekly Thursday meetings, in addition to engaging in certain weekend engagements throughout the course of the nine month school year. Team members build relationships, help communities identify key issues, and develop action strategies to create a just environment for all people, especially for those marginalized for gender or sexuality.

We are seeking high school students residing or attending high school in Nashville/Davidson County (outside Davidson County if you have reliable transportation) who identify within the LGBTQ community or as an ally. Your life experience at school, within your family and your community are the beginning skills you will need. Questions regarding identity will not be used to discriminate team candidates. These questions are in place for informative purposes only.
